Young Scientist Award Recipient Has Promising Career in Cancer Research

Sudhakar Akulapalli, M.Sc, M.Phil & Ph.D., Director of the Cell Signaling and Tumor Angiogenesis Laboratory at Boys Town National Research Hospital, received the prestigious "OMICS Publishing Group-Young Scientist Award" at the International Bioequivalence & Bioavailability Conference in Hyderabad, India, March 1-3, 2010. Of the 400 scientists who attended the conference, from all over the world, only Dr. Akulapalli was selected for the Young Scientist Award for his promising cancer research achievements and renowned journal publications. As a pioneer in his field, Dr. Akulapalli chaired a key session titled Anticancer/Anti-Neovascular Drugs during the conference.

Dr. Akulapalli has identified signaling mechanisms of many endogenous angioinhibitors regulating solid tumor (cancer) growth, and his findings were published in Science, PNAS, Journal of Clinical Investigation, Blood and many other top scientific journals with high citation index in the Biological Sciences. Dr. Akulapalli is also an Executive Editor for Journal of Cancer Science & Therapy, Editor for Journal of Bioequivalence & Bioavailability and Associate Editor for the Journal of Bioanalysis & Biomedicine. In addition he is also an honorable Editorial Board member for World Journal of Surgical Oncology due to his outstanding research.

Dr. Akulapalli's Cell Signaling and Tumor Angiogenesis Laboratory is supported by the research funds from Flight Attendant Medical Research Institute "Young Clinical Scientist Award Grant" and Boys Town National Research Hospital.
